This day, if your politics mold your opinion of a man, it's going to change more than he is.

ALTER EGO. . .

They (a dodge for not knowing any source or making one up) say everyone has a "double" or look-alike somewhere else in the world.

This would be in physical appearance. It is remote but possible that a near duplicate of yourself is walking around somewhere, the difference being in the fingerprints and the brain.

It is even possible that a "double" would have the same mental capacity. But it is not likely his brain has the same imprint of prior experience, going into pre-history, nor is it likely he has lived the same experiences down to the nuances that make vast differences in the crunch.

There is, however, another look-alike or think-alike which requires no physical similarity. And that is an alter-ego.

The ego transcends physical or mental differences. And through shared experiences or dreams or ambitions, it can create an alternative to you in another remote in age, opposite in sex, diverse in prior experience or even in species.

Somehow, chemistry between two people can create an alter-ego relationship. It would seem charismatic political leaders can establish alter-ego identity with whole groups in a given time, or in deep emotional involvement, from now on.

Alter-egos are more common than we realize. Society has yet to understand them because they may appear otherwise.

Alter-egoism is probably self-serving. It serves a need. But it can lead to other relationships or it can fade, just like anything else.

Watching one close at hand is fascinating. One which may surprise might be you and say a household pet, a dog or cat. He or she becomes one definition of alter-ego, "an intimate friend." Haven't you seen pictures of masters and look-alike dogs?

Society wants everything neat, and it is important to maintain the large outlines of identity. But the less than obvious things like an alter-ego may be qually as important, if not critical.

In personal experience, I've watched one such relationship for years that transcends experience and exceeds other explanation. It's a permanent alter-egoism.

POLICE TRAIN - Lt. Arthur Butler, right, training officer for the Texas Department of Public Safety, explains the Fourth Amendment to Cameron police officers Ken Butler, Bob Pilkey, Chief Felipe Martinez, volunteer fireman Tommy Chamberlain, and constable-elect Spud Caywood. The training consists of 56 hours instruction in various aspects of criminal investigation.

Parade To Welcome Yule Season

The Christmas holiday season will be officially ushered into Cameron Saturday with a downtown parade that promises a lavish display of the holiday spitit.

The parade, the first held here in four years, is a joint effort of the Cameron Chamber of Commerce and the Evening Lions Club.

Lineup time for parade units will be 3 p.m. at the intersection of Crockett and Main, and starting time is 3:30.

Parade units will include nine floats, one of which will be for Santa Claus, sponsored by the local Texas Highway Department.

Other floats have been entered by the Fleur delis Garden Club, Cameron Booster Club, Noon Lions, Folk Fete, First Baptist Church, Cameron 4-H Club, Cameron Grove Baptist Church, and the Junior MYF of First United Methodist Church.

Other units in the parade will be bands from Yoe High in Cameron and the Rogers High School Band, horses, commercial entries from farm implement and car dealers, sheriff's department, police department, and the fire department.

Floats will be judged with $25 going to the first place float, $15 for second place, and $10 for third.

Following the parade, Santa will be at the courthouse to visit with the kiddies from 4:30 until 6 p.m. This will be his only visit to the city this year, so the youngsters should plan to be on hand to express their wishes Saturday.

Bob Bullock Proposes Unitary Primary Bill

A unitary primary election proposed by Secretary of State Bob Bullock will probably be approved by the next session of the Legislature according to State Rep. Dan Kubiak.

The suggested bill would do away with separate polling places for each political party, set limits on salaries for election clerks and judges and on the number of election employees.

Financing of the 1972 primaries was thrown into chaos when a federal court ruled that charging candidate filing fees to pay for elections was illegal. An emergency bill allowed the state to pay 1972 primary election costs which Bullock charged were "the most costly of any in this State's history." Final costs exceeded by $300,000 the $2.8 million estimated.

An election cost list supplied by the Secretary of State's office showed Milam County's election costs in line or below counties of similar size. The state reimbursed the Milam County Democratic Party $7,395.97 and the Milam County Republican Party $429.40. Election costs in some counties of similar size exceeded $10,000.

Kubiak said a study of the primary election costs revealed that the major cost variance was in number of employees hired and salaries paid. "There were no restrictions as to the number of clerks and in one instance there were 25 election employees and only 100 votes cast," Kubiak said.

Kubiak said he hoped a new bill would also abandon the voters signature on the ballot tab. "Many people don't really vote their conscience because they must sign the ballot." Kubiak said. He said this had been particularly true in South Texas.

Kubiak said that more than half of the states have adopted the unitary primary system where all party primaries are held in one place with a separate ballot for each party.

Secretary of State Bullock's proposal for the unitary primary was included in a multiple part report on Proposed Election Law Changes.

"The emergency primary financing act passed in March in order to avoid a complete collapse of the impending May Primaries salvaged one more primary election," Bullock asserted. "But the $2.8 million price tag dramatically points up the need for a more economical primary operation. The unitary primary fulfills this need."

Local Police Attending School

Cameron police officers are continuing a 56-hour course in criminal investigation this week with training by officers of the Texas Department of Public Safety.

The course includes criminal law, burglary investigations, interrogation, mob and riot control and firearms training, among others.

Instructors include training officers Arthur C. Butler, James C. Shaw, Harry S. Leach, Floyd Hacker, all of Austin and Floyd Tippit of Hearne.

Antiques Stolen From Local Home

The theft of some six pieces of antique furniture from his home on West Main was reported to Sheriff Carl Black by Cap Wolf this week.

He told the sheriff the furniture was apparently taken Saturday night. He discovered the theft Sunday.

The sheriff also reported that there have been no leads in the recent theft of some $900 in cash and checks taken from the safe in the Milano School office. The money was from various school funds and the Milano PTO.

GED Testing Underway

Adults in a five-county area will be taking their General Educational Development (GED) tests in Cameron and in Rockdale this week and next week.

Local testing is at the Cameron Junior High School.

The tests next week will be held at the Marlin Middle School for students in the Marlin, Calvert and Hearne areas.

County School Supt. Max McClaren, whose office is coordinator for Adult Basic Education (ABE) in the five-county area, said at least 57 adults are expected to take the tests.

The adults have been enrolled in ABE classes. Passing the series of five GED tests will entitle the students to certification by the State Education Department which is equivalent to a high school diploma.

In Cameron, the tests are administered by Mrs. Ruth Sharp, Yoe High School counselor, and Wayne Kirk of the county school superintendent's office. The tests at Rockdale are admisistered by Jack Ruzicka, Cameron teacher.

McClaren said the five-county area includes Milam, Lee, Falls, Burleson, Robertson, and part of Bell County--Rogers.

He said another series of the tests is planned for next May. Anyone enrolled in the ABE classes is eligible to take the tests.

World Scientists Study Nuclear Waste Disposal

By William Scally

WASHINGTON

Lethal radioactive wastes may one day be rocketed into space or sucked into the bowels of the earth--but for years to come man must live alongside a growing accumulation of nuclear material that will remain "hot" for centuries.

Suggestions for eventual disposal of deadly byproducts of proliferating nuclear power stations, and a bid to allay the anxieties of environmentalists, were made at a recent international conference of nuclear scientists here.

The environmentalists fear that the wastes will be a danger to human health and safety. Some have suggested that until more knowledge can be gained about handling the wastes, the United States should declare a moratorium on new nuclear power stations.

The first commercial wastes from atomic power stations are expected to be generated early next year. One large power station will produce about eight tons of waste in a year -- and by the year 2010, Atomic Energy Commission (A.E.C.) officials expect to be taking care of 8,000 10-foot-long canisters of solid radioactive waste.

"I feel that the A.E.C. and the industry do know how to treat and manage these wastes safely and that current plans are such that all necessary action will be taken to ensure that the environment and the health and safety of the public will be protected," A.E.C. official Dr. Frank Pittman told the American Nuclear Society here.

Two years ago, the A.E.C. tentatively picked an abandoned salt mine in Kansas as a repository for disposal of radio-active material for the remainder of the 20th century.

The plan aroused opposition, and the A.E.C. switched exploratory work to another area of Kansas and to New Mexico salt beds. Such sites were believed suitable because they have been geologically stable for millions of years and are free from water movement.

But until studies have been completed on the use of bedded salt as a final resting place for wastes, the A.E.C. is confident that man-made structures, closely monitored, are "perfectly feasible," according to Dr. Pittman, director of the A.E.C.'s division of waste management and transportation.

The buildings will be designed to last for at least 100 years and to withstand storm, earthquake, flood and sabotage.

He stressed that the power stations wastes would be carefully processed and would be in solid form, unlike the 80 million gallons of semi-liquid wastes produced by development of atomic reactors and weapons over nearly 30 years.

Options for permanent disposal of the waste were outlined by Julius Rubin, the A.E.C.'s assistant general manager for environment and safety.

One alternative would make use of the geological phenomenon linked with the so-called continental drift, in which the world's continents are slowly moving apart.

Geologists believe that the earth's crust is made up of floating plates which overlap deep in the ocean, with part of the earth's crust slipping towards the center of the planet.

Containers of radioactive waste would be placed in deep trenches on the ocean floor, to be sucked down by the movement of these plates, Rubin suggested.

But this solution, and one in which the waste sealed in containers would be placed in areas being rapidly covered by river delta sediment, might run foul of international prohibitions on ocean dumping, he conceded.

Dr. Rubin said that before waste could be fired by rocket into deep space or into the sun, as some have suggested, scientists would have to find out how to separate the most toxic elements from the bulk waste.

From The Center, March...

It seems the Nixon Administration is turning right with announcements that John Connally and New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller will not be in a new cabinet.

Mr. Connally led the national Democrats for Nixon, which contributed to the President's landslide re-election, and Governor Rockefeller worked hard for Mr. Nixon's re-election in New York.

The President asked for 2,000 proforma resignations the morning after the election. He is cutting down the staff in the White House in preparation for reductions within the massive bureaucracy.

Another interesting development is HEW's Secretary George Romney's announced plans to leave his cabinet post to organize what one report called a "Republican Common Cause." This would seem similar to John Gardner's Common Cause effort, which is sort of a ombudsman lobby group for good government.

These changes are not unusual, including Defense Secretary Melvin Laird's anncunced plans to change. It is seldom a cabinet post is held more than one four-year term unless overriding problems such as war cause say, a Dean Rusk to stay on as secretary of state in two cabinets under two presidents of the same party.

Mr. Nixon seems to be responding to a vote that said to him "make sense out of central government after we're out of Vietnam."

This would mean continued efforts in the vein of revenue sharing to turn government responsibility toward regional, state and city levels, where the tax income is lean and the problems are growing and close at hand.

Personnel changes at the cabinet level indicate we are going to see refinements of the federal apparatus, efforts toward a reversal of power concentration underway these 40 years. From the center, march.

'No' To Willy Nilly....

Hub Bechtol, the former Texas All - American, believes in heroes.

Speaking before a Tejas District recognition dinner, he ticked off the problems of modern society, and said the group of Scout leaders at the Rockdale dinner could start a turn away from them.

Most interesting was his comment that people lack belief in themselves. He seemed to be saying that belief in oneself is more than confidence in oneself.

Confidence can be shaken, even destroyed. But belief in one's self, a basic strength, is harder to shake, and if deep, is probably indestructible. That kind of belief comes from other sources, the kind heroes, called fools in a modern day, live with.

This was a man speaking, who is convincing when he says things don't have to go willy-nilly to civilization's garbage heap.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Leave Love

Once upon a time a man in Chicago wrote a "will" containing a series of magical bequests.

To children everywhere, he left "the long long days to be merry in, in a thousand ways, and the Night and the Moon and the Milky Way to wonder at."

To lovers, he left flowers and stars and music, to be used in describing their feelings for each other.

To parents, he left "in trust for their children, all good little words of praise and all quaint pet names."

To the elderly, he left "Memory, to the end that they may live the old days over again freely and fully." He left them also "the knowledge of what a rare, rare world it is."

Of course this document, composed by one Williston Fish in the year 1898, would never stand up in court as a legal will. Still, it is a striking reminder of the special opportunity given to each of us by our right to make a will —the opportunity to leave behind, as we depart this life, a legacy of love.

Few of us are as imaginative as Williston Fish. Yet most wills, in one way or another, do indeed reflect the deepest and most tender of emotions. Between the lines, behind the formalities, may be found gratitude to a devoted spouse, forgiveness for a wayward child, concern about an ailing relative, ardor for a worthy cause.

And even in the most properly executed, legally correct will, people are constantly finding fresh ways to express plain and simple affection.

A few months ago the following will, only 18 words long, was admitted to probate in a New York courtroom:

"Dearest George,
All I have is what you gave me.
So everything I have is yours.
Lovingly,
Helen."

THERE ARE CRUTCHES AND THERE ARE CRUTCHES—

Sadat Pushes For New Relations With Russia

By Granville Watts

CAIRO

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat is grappling with internal and foreign problems in what is perhaps the most difficult period of his leadership as he faces a busy period ahead with an expected increase in American initiatives for a solution in the Middle East.

Sadat has pushed for a new relationship with the Soviet Union -- sometimes in the face of opposition from some of his colleagues.

This opposition became focused in the person of Gen. Mohamed Sadek, the former war minister and military commander who was replaced by Sadat in a shakeup on Oct. 26.

Sadek was reported to be firmly against any resumption of dialogue with Moscow. He was noticeably absent from the delegation that accompanied Egyptian Prime Minister Aziz Sidky to the Sovet capital earlier last month.

Sidky came back with a new deal with the Russians for the continuation of Soviet aid and resumption of the flow of spare parts for military equipment supplied over the years by the Soviet Union.

Things came to a head when long-standing differences between Sadat and Sidky burst into an open row and Sadat had to make a choice. Sadek went.

Sadek, as military commander, had also taken ultimate responsibility for a curious incident in which, according to the official version, an army captain drove into Cairo with three armored cars and addressed people at the Hussein mosque in the Egyptian capital.

The Egyptian government strongly denied reports published abroad that there had in fact been an attempted coup aimed at overthrowing Sadat and that 200 army men had been arrested.

Even if the government account is accepted, however, the fact that an armored car force could penetrate the center of the capital was something that called for a general tightening up in security.

On the civilian side, the distinguished-looking, white-haired Sayed Marei, secretary - general of the Arab Socialist Union (A.S.U.), Egypt's only political party, is reported to have offered his resignation, but to have been persuaded by Sadat to carry on.

Many legislators appeared confused by Sadat's apparent switch in policy. He had ordered 20,000 Soviet military experts out of Egypt last July, and now, they argued, he appeared to be welcoming them back.

Many Egyptians remain strongly critical of any ties with Russia. During heated scenes at a recent meeting between top legislators and the Egyptian leadership, some politicans called for an end to the country's 15-year friendship treaty with Mosdow and a complete break in relations with the Soviet Union.

Sadat, however, is reported determined to carry through his policies in relation to the Russians.

GO HERALD CLASSIFIEDS

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editar:

It has been the custom over the past few years to berate the U.S. Supreme Court, some people saying the judges have made some haywire decisions, especially involving the rights of criminals and other odd decisions the Founding Fathers never thought of when they wrote the Constitution. Some have even said that the calibre of the Judges has been lowered, that, as with other inflationary situations, while it cost as much as it ever did to operate the court you just don't get nearly the quality of decisions.

Well, that's mostly out of my provence, but the Court did act the other day in a way that makes you believe it still has some smart guys on it.

Here's the situation: some parents, displeased because a school teacher had paddled their son, sued the school on the grounds it was unconstitutional. I don't know which part of the Constitution they based their suit on, although I'm pretty sure it wasn't the Freedon of the Press clause. Who ever heard of an editor's child needing paddling?

At any rate, the case got all the way up to the Supreme Court, and what was the Court's decision?

In its wisdom, in fact in its unchallengeable Soleomon-like smartness, the Court simply declined to rule on the case. Washed its hands and said no thanks.

Say what you please about those Judges on other decisions, but in this case they demonstrated absolutely superior wisdon. Nobody was about to catch them getting messed up in a local school affair.

To this day we don't know whether the kid was paddled unconstitutionally or not, but if I were a kid I believe I'd watch my step and try to avoid whatever it was that brought on that whipping.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Education Committee To Meet

The House Committee on Administration of Public Education in the State of Texas as authorized by HSR 647 will hold the next meeting at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday, December 5, in the Coronada Room, Inn of Six Flags, Turnpike and Highway 360, Arlington.

Meetings are being held around the state in an attempt to better coordinate activities of the Texas Education Agency and the public schools of Texas.

School administrators, school personnel, board members and the general public are asked to bring their suggestions and tell of problem areas that are in need of correction.

Meetings have been held in El Paso, Harlingen, Temple, Baytown, Austin, Beaumont and Nacogdoches, according to Rep. Kubiak.

A report of the findings of the Committee on Administration of Public Education will be submitted to the Texas Legislature when it convenes in regular session in January 1973.

In addition to Rep. Kubiak, the committee is composed of two other members of the legislature and four lay members from the field of education.

Grain Sorghum Given Disease Prone Ratings

Texas grain sorghum producers now have at their fingertips information on disease resistance of susceptibility of most commercial grain sorghums in the state.

The information is available at local county Extension offices and concerns 191 hybrids and their reaction to downy mildew, head smut and maize dwarf mosaic virus (MDMV). The hybrids were contributed by 22 commercial seed companies in the state and two in Nebraska.

The massive campaign began this spring as a joint effort of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station of Texas A&M University. Support through a $1,000 grant-in-aid came from the South Texas Cotton and Grain Association.

All hybrids were planted at three locations--Bay City, Port Lavaca and Iago (near Wahrton). Plantings at Bay City were rated for downy mildew, those at Port Lavaca, for head smut, and plots at Iago were checked for MDMV.

"This is the first time a project of this magnitude has been undertaken," said Dr. David Rosberg, head of the Texas A&M Department of Plant Sciences. "Futhermore, it was a joint effort with both Experiment Station and Extension Service personnel working hand-in-hand to compile a package of invaluable information for grain sorghum producers throughout the state and nation."

According to Horne and Frederiksen, disease is a limiting factor to top grain sorghum yields in many areas of Texas, especially in the South. And genetic resistance is the best means of controlling these diseases.

"In designing this disease rating project, we especially selected fields with a high incidence of the particular disease," noted Horne and Frederiken. "In other words, we attemped to give these hybrids a real 'acid' test."

What followed was a season long vigil by the two plant pathologists and others to keep a close check on the almost 200 hybrids and to record disease severity, plant height, days to 50 percent bloom and color of the grain.

With regard to downy mildew and head smut, each hybrid was labeled as to the percent of infection. MDMV ratings were given as "very tolerant, tolerant, intermedeate, susceptible and very susceptible."

During the season county Extension agents, in cooperation with local producers, conducted field days and tours at the various locations to get a first-hand look at the actual field performance of the hybrids.

"The information we have obtained from these tests should be mutually beneficial to both producers and commercial seed companies," pointed out the pathologists. "And it should be valid for all grain sorghum producing areas.

"With this information producers will know the disease reaction of the hybrid they select. Of course, they need to consider only those disease ratings for the diseases that occur in their fields. For example, if downy mildew is a problem, a hybrid should be lelected that has a high yield potential and is resistant to that particular disease."

Grant To Aid Study Of Peanut Pests

The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station has received a U.S. Department of Agriculture grant of $40,000 for a two year study on the "economic threshold" of peanut insect pests, Dr. Jarvis Miller, station director announced.

Economic threshold, says Dr. J. W. Smith of the A&M University Entonology Department and the Experiment Station, is that point at which the insect population is high enough to require control. It also can be the stage that insecticide application should be stopped.

Put another way, the economic threshold indicates the degree of damage at which significant money losses begin to occur.

The entomologist said the project involves deliberate infestation of plants with known numbers of insects to determine those levels that cause the most economic loss.

Studies are now underway at the Texas A&M University-Tarleton Experiment Station near Stephenville.

Poultry Team Places 11th At Chicago

The Milan 4-H Poultry Team, representing the State of Texas, placed 11th out of 17 states at the 4-H Poultry Judging Contest in Chicago Saturday.

The team consists of Ricky Richter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Richter; David Ehler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frankie Ehler; Robert Riola, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Riola; and Jerry Mueck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Mueck of Cameron.

The team won first at the State 4-H contest at Texas A&M University in June. Placing over eight teams from Texas, Milam County has won the state contest eight times in the last 15 years.

At the state contest, Ricky was the high point individual in the contest.

The team was accompanied by Rodney Kruse, assistant county agent.

They left for Chicago Nov. 22 and returned home Monday.

ICE INSULATION

Ice is being used experimentally to save fruit orchards in Springfield, Oregon, from frost damage, National Geographic reports. Spraying hot waste water from a nearby pulp plant on the trees sheathes buds in "warm ice" that keeps them insulated at about 30 Fahrenheit when the temperature drops much lower.

Stalk Destruction Deadline Nears . . . Boll Weevil Suppression Program Popular and Successful . . . 4.5 Million Market News Bulletins . . . Turkey Promotion Year Round

Cotton producers in 44 north central and east Texas counties are reminded that Nov. 30 is the deadline for cotton stalk destruction. No area extensions are expected to be made. Individual extensions may be granted, but requests for those will have to be made by contacting Texas Department of Agriculture at Austin.

Cotton stalk destruction reduces the number of pink bollworms that enter hibernation next year as well as reducing infestations of other cotton insects.

THE STATE'S boll weevil suppression program for this year has been as popular as it was successful. A total of $300,000 was allocated for the program this year which is matched on a half-and-half basis by producers. About 450,000 acres were included in the program which is aimed at reducing next year's weevil populations.

Records show there was a greater infestation of weevils this year than in any season since the program began in 1965. Farmers in 11 counties participated in the diapause program for the 1972 season.

Funds for the program are limited although it is expected that more requests for assistance will be forthcoming from cotton producers in 1973.

ABOUT 4.5 million market news bulletins will have been mailed to Texas agricultural producers by the end of this year from the Texas Department of Agriculture's market news service.

They will be mailed to about 85,000 Texans. The market news service contacts about 1,200 people each week in collecting its market news reports.

Items ranging from daisies to ornamental crops to molasses to livestock and crop reports are covered in the market news reports.

The livestock market news apparently is the most popular. It is an eight-page publication and includes 16 state livestock markets plus grain markets from five areas. It goes to 77,000 people each week.

The poultry and egg report is also popular. It is mailed to 1,800 egg producers and egg industry people.

One of the most popular reports right now is the pecan market. Other market reports include watermelons, rice, ornamental crops, and vegetable and fruit market reports from Hereford, Dallas, and Weslaco.

You can also get instant market news by calling these numbers:

Austin--pecans, poultry and eggs: 1-512-475-3845.
Amarillo--livestock: 1-806-372-3494.
San Antonio--livestock: 1-512-223-4100.
McAllen (after 5 p.m.)-- fruits, vegetables: 1-512-682-3351

PROMOTION of turkeys will continue through the year through the cooperation of the state's turkey producers and the Texas Agricultural Products program. Texas is the fifth leading state in the nation in total turkey production. Turkeys grown in the state totaled more than 8 million head.

The Central Texas area is the state's major turkey producing region. Bell County is the top turkey producing county in the state. Hill, McLennan, Falls, and Robertson counties are also in the top 10. Total production of those counties accounts for almost 40 percent of all turkeys produced in Texas.

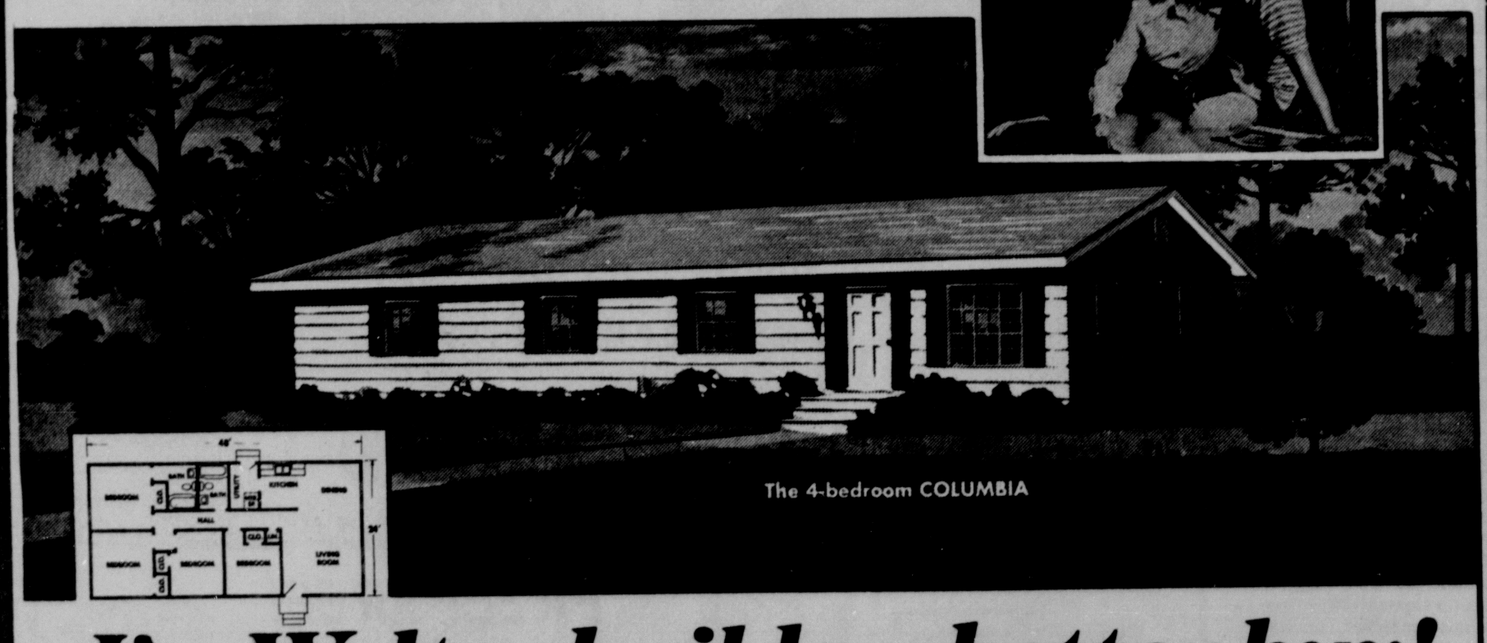
What do you want...a low cost, quality built home?



The 4-bedroom COLUMBIA

Jim Walter builds a better buy!

Remember when you could buy a Coke for a nickle . . . twelve-full-ounces of Pepsi . . . a 5¢ cup of coffee? Those days are gone forever, but you can still buy a low cost home . . . a low cost, QUALITY home built on your property. Jim Walter builds them today. Want to know something else? He's been building a better buy since way back in 1946. Twenty-six years and nearly a quarter of a million homes later, Jim Walter still builds a better buy . . . for you!

Oh, yes, materials are much better than they were in '46. Wood-made-better siding that you hardly ever have to paint . . . heavy duty shingle roofing is in . . . aluminum windows have replaced wooden sash windows. So what's the same? Custom building! No short cuts, no mass production . . . no pre-fabrication. Your home will be built on your lot one piece of lumber and one nail at a time. Good, solid construction.

All of this adds up to one thing. You want a low cost two, three or four bedroom home? If you own property on which to build, nothing is stopping you. And, if you want to keep costs even lower we'll stop at almost any stage of interior completion . . . you finish the rest. Do as much of the inside work as you like . . . the more you do, the more you save. We'll even furnish the material and include the cost in your mortgage payments.

HAUNTING MEMORIES?

Two 1967 incidents, aimed personally to University of Texas football coach Darrell Royal, may not have had a thing to do with the misery his tormentors have since suffered.

But, don't bet on it.

At the Cotton Bowl Party, honoring Gene Stallings' 1967 SWC Champions, with all conference coaches invited guests, some carried-away Aggies commandeered the PA System and "counted-down" the last 15 minutes in "The Year of the Horns." Royal, whose team was upset 10-7 by the Aggies and 24-17 by TCU in its last two games to snatch away what had been an almost certain UT Championship, was startled. And, embarrassed. He was heard to mutter, "We were not the only school who failed to win the conference championship. We may be down, but we're not dead."

Like a ton of Aggies, who celebrated UT and Royal's misfortune even more than their own unexpected championship, TCU Coach Fred Taylor chose to personally puncture Darrell Royal. Taylor, after the Frog victory over UT at Austin, threw open his door to writers and told 'em Royal, himself, was responsible, having called his TCU players, "Cockroaches." Taylor had dug up a six-year old Royal wuote, taken it out of context, and was telling the world what a dummy the UT Boss was.

Well, both the Cotton Bowl embarrassment of Royal and Taylor's resurrection, and misuse, of an unforunate, six-year old statement were cheap shots. Royal, to this day, never responded to either. An intensely proud, competitive sort, you can bet he did not forget.

Five years later, Darrell K. Royal is 5-0 against the Aggies and 5-0 over TCU. DKR's Longhorns have outscored the Aggies, 208 to 57, in those five games, 41.4 per game to 11.1. In the same span, Texas has bombed TCU for 232, 46.4 per outing to a Frog total of 28. And, those 1967 Royal Conquerors Stallings and Taylor have long since been fired.

Royal? He's alive and well. And, busy. In those ensuing five years, he has won two National Championships, five SWC titles, put five teams in the Cotton Bowl, has been named College "Coach of the Year" by the nation's coaches and "Coach of the Decade," by ABC-TV. His Longhorns have finished third first, first, 11th and fifth in the National Polls. And, strung up 30 straight.

Darrell has beaten Notre Dame, invented and polarized College Football's latest offensive rage -- The Wishbone - T -- and now has become the winningest coach in SWC football history. When his UTees slapped the Aggies, 38-3, on National TV Thanksgiving night, Royal won his 87th conference game in 16 years, something it took the old record-holder, Rice's Jess Neely, 27 years to do.

Like we said, those personal attacks on Royal in 1967, may have had absolutely nothing to do with the plight of the Aggies and Frogs versus Texas these past five autumns.

But, what do you think?

QUICKIES:

Place under the "It couldn't happen to a nicer person" column: The 21-0 victory L. Z. Bryan's Brazoswood High Bucs won over Former State Champion Austin Reagan. Bryan, one of University of Houston's original football stars, has turned out three district champions in the three years since the Lake Jackson School opened its doors. . . Well, old Arrogant Ara has his tail in another crack. Like The West Texas Mouth, Parseghian spends too much time comparing other coaches' football teams. The Notre Dame Pretty Boy had a lot of gall running down Texas and the Cotton Bowl. After all, his team was defeated by Missouri, a team Baylor had humiliated, 22-0. Baylor, a 17-3 victim of Texas, is not exactly a Top Ten team . . .And, to make the Parseghian brass even more amazing, consider that two days before he blasted Bear Bryant for allegedly seeking an easy game with Texas in the Cotton Bowl, the Fighting Irish had fought for their lives before defeating Miami, 20-19. That's the same team UT whipped by two touchdowns and the same eleven Baylor put the strap to a month ago. . . When Wally Pryor, the UT PA Man, announced Oklahoma's 17-14 margin over Nebraska, the team Bryant's No. 2 Ranked Alabama Crimson Tide was accused of dodging, he commented, wryly: "Eat your heart out, Ara."

Doors Of Yoe

By Marilyn Hauk

Football will have a new twist Friday night with Yoemen as coaches and girls as players. The Senior - Sophomore team verses the Junior - Freshmen team with both eager to win. Game time is 7:30 p.m. with adults entering for $1.25 and students 75 cents.

Wednesday the Library Club served refreshments all day long for club members and teachers.

TIRE RECORD

When you buy new tires make sure the seller records your name, address and the identification numbers on the sidewalls. This registration is required by government regulation. It enables the manufacturer to notify you personally if a safety defect is found in any of the tires from the same production run.

Top Rating For Student

Miss Becky Beckhusen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilburn Beckhusen of Buckholts and a freshman at Temple Junior College received an "Excellent" rating in poetry interpretation at the 25th annual Speech Festival at San Marcos.

Temple Junior College students won second place sweepstakes with several superior and excellent ratings. Mrs. Nil Whittington is chairman of the speech and drama department at TJC.

Thirty-nine colleges and universities from New Mexico, Texas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Arkansas competed in the festival.

80 Attend Reunion At Burlington

About 80 decendants of the Late Mr. and Mrs. Joe Marek attended a family reunion at Burlington Saturday, November 25. Walter Marek was in charge of arrangements.

The Marek family established their home in Cyclone, Milam County, in 1878, later moving to Burlington. Of nine children, two survive, Lee W. Marek, Sr. of Cameron and Mrs. Ed Aigner of Waco.

A dance followed the dinner served by Mikeska's Barbeque of Temple.

Supermarket Shopping Proves Modern Miracle

By Christine Laws
County Extension Agent

Picture the modern housewife at the supermarket. Carefully she makes her way down the long rows of canned fruits or vegetables, or stops by the meat counter, or picks up a gallon of milk or a dozen eggs. Sounds like an everyday job? Sure, but it's also a modern miracle, for with less than 16 1/2 cents out of each dollar her husband earns, she is buying the best, safest, and the most wholesome food products offered bo any civilization at any time.

First, let us look at the safety factor for Texas foods. Stories often appear in newspapers and magazines to the affect that food may be contaminated or unsafe. Nothing could be further from the truth. Every step of the way, products that go into human food chains are carefully inspected and regulated. Every quart of milk you buy has been watched by an average of five sets of health inspectors. Every animal is carefully examined before slaughter by state or federal inspection. These men are also there when the animal is killed. The same goes for canned fruits and vegetables. Food poisoning in the United States is almost non-existent.

Secondly, your choice of the best food products is helped by federal lables that indicate how good it really is. For example, beef carcasses may be marked U. S. Choice, No. 2 with a harmless ink dye. This means that usually it comes from grain-fed beef animals and has just the right amount of fat to make tasty steaks and roasts. The number 2 means it will have an unusually high ration of lean to bone.

Milk is now coming mostly from Grade A dairies where gleaming stainless steel utensils are cleaned after each milking in almost hospital like surroundings. Broilers are labeled USDA Grade A with further designations as "young" or "fryer" to let you know that they are crammed with good eating. Eggs are graded by size, and vegetables such as corn may carry the U. S. Grade A (or Fancy) label to let you know it's the very best.

Moreover, food is cheap. Don't be misled by the price index of foods. Food today has never been cheaper, when compared with other items you commonly buy. On this basis, food has declined in cost, expressed as percent of the consumer's disposable dollars, by nearly 10 percent since 1960.

What makes your shopping bill so high is more likely all the extra services you enjoy such as the built-inextras of packaging in convenient, attractive containers, or pre-cooking and preparation. Also it can be due to all the other items you often buy at the large supermarkets -- cosmetics, kitchen utensils, drugs and even clothing. Actually, food prices in the last ten years have gone up only 25 percent as compared to a 50 percent increase in wages and much higher increases in everything else.

Americans spend less than half as much for food as the citizens of the iron curtain nations, based on percent of disposable income.

To do this job of producing the best food at the cheapest cost, Texas farmers and ranchers keep 5.7 million beef cows, fatten out 3.5 million steers a year in giant beef catories on the Plains. Texas dairy herds produce over 3 billion pounds of milk; Texas poultry flocks produce 223 million cartons of one dozen eggs a year. So big is the Texas agricultural industry that it returns about 3.2 billion dollars a year. This is vitally important to both rural towns and big cities. Before it is finally processed and cold, a dollar's worth of Texas farm produce has earned nearly three times its original value in the services required.

To you and me, this means that Texas food and fiber is the basis for nearly 9 billion dollars worth if income and commerce. Other industries serve this giant complex with fuel, electricity, water, and transportation. In the Texas Panhandle, for example, over 1,700 trucks arrive or leave daily with cattle, feed, and equipment for the gigantic feedlots.

Texas agriculture is more than food, it is part of the clothes you wear and the fabrics you enjoy. Nothing beats the quality plus factor of Texas wool and cotton. That is why nearly all synthetics also include a large percentage of cotton, wool or mohair in their blends for wearing qualities, warmth, bright colors, or consumer statisfaction.

We're anxious to tell you this story of the miracle of modern food and fiber. That's why Texas producers together with the radio, press, television, and the industries that supply treatment, electricity, and services to the farmer all banded together to put on "Food and Fiber Month" so that you would know and appreciate how lucky you, as consumers really are.

Because of what is produced and supplied in the way of services, the lucky American housewife, can shop with confidence. She can be sure that she is getting the very best for her family, because it is Texas Food and Fiber, the modern miracle.

Pot Luck Supper Spiced With Comedy For Teachers

It was a light-hearted evening for Cameron Classroom Teachers when the 64 member organization hosted their annual "Pot-Luck" supper honoring new teachers, administrators and school board members.

The dinner held last week in the Yoe High homemaking building featured after-dinner entertainment by comically costumed faculty members in skits and musical numbers MC'd by Classroom Teachers President Ms. Ann Gaskey.

Headliners for the faculty talent show were Kenneth Freeman on the harmonica, a solo by Ms. Sherrill Smith, readings by Thomas Dusek, and a barber shop quartet of Cameron School Administrators Arnett Zelisko, Jack Chubb, Bill Huffman and Robert Maler.

Starring in comedy skits were Ms. Frances Hensley, Ms. Dorothy Gause, Ms. Jane Burns, Ms. DeLane Yager, Ms. Courtney Nelson, Ms. Anita Hauk, Don Swanzy, Ms. Barbara Adamek, Ms. Carol Farr, Ms. Karen Lilley.

Ms. Glenda Dusek played piano accompaniment.

Officers of the local association of teachers are Ms. Gaskey, president, Ms. Frances Hensley, vice president, Ed Foster, treasurer, Rae Green, secretary and Ms. Judy Todd, reporter.

Stage New Production

Tickets are on sale for "The Birthday Party," Baylor Theater's next production.

"The Birthday Party," written by Harold Pinter, will open Dec. 5 on the Waco campus. Performances will continue Dec. 6 through 9 and 11 through 13. All performances will be at 8 p.m. in Baylor Theater.

Tickets are available for $2 each at the Baylor Theater box office on South Fifth Street.

Psychiatric Team To Meet Here

The Outreach Action team from the Children's Psychiatric Unit of the Austin State Hospital will be in Cameron Monday, December 4, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Milam County Outreach Center.

Mrs. Norma Wllace, director of the Milam County Outreach Center, said the Austin team is interested in staff program development for a needed child counseling service in Milam County. "A service such as this is of value to those who are directly involved with emotionally disturbed children and those with problems concerning children," Mrs. Wallace said.

The team consists of a psychiatrist, nurse, psychologist, social worker, child care worker, teacher and a co-ordinator.

Anyone interested in attending the meeting should contact the Outreach Center by calling 697-6841.

Game Finale: A Winning Dessert

A DESSERT TABLE set with mouth-watering treats almost as exciting as the activity on the field: that's your goal as hostess. Here, Championship Coffee Soufflé, Rookie's Choice Cakes.

Widows Into Wives

You're a football widow because you don't understand the game? Here, terms for the novice:
1) Quarterback: player who calls the shots.
2) Referee: Man with whistle who stays out of trouble.
3) Penalty: Someone goofed.
4) Fumble: Someone goofed terribly.
5) Touchdown: Six points for our side.
6) Pigskin: Also called a football.
7) Half-time: Everyone rests but the band.
8) Time-Out: Strategy huddle.
9) Coach: Man having fit on sidelines.
10) Hero: Man carried off field on teammates' shoulders.

NEW YORK (ED) — With football season here, your family probably spends hours (seems like days) clustered around the television. Since there's not much you can do to change the situation (millions of women share your fate), why not hostess a post-game party? While your family and friends are watching those mammoth men of sport collide, pass and punt — you can step into the kitchen and prepare a nice dessert to help make victory sweeter, or defeat more palatable.

But don't be too dainty! Even though your quarterbacks are only the armchair variety, they'll probably work up an appetite just watching all that energy displayed on the field of honor. Some hostesses make the mistake of forcing guests to adhere to a dietary game plan. You can munch on carrot curls and radish flowers, but if it's men (especially the football fanatic variety) you're planning to treat, something sweet is in order. Call the plays with football's own NFL Training Table Foods for a touch of authenticity.

Championship Coffee Soufflé is lovely to look at, robust and sweet without being sticky. Rookie's Choice Cakes, squares of good eating, will land you the trophy as Football Wife of the year.

CHAMPIONSHIP COFFEE SOUFFLE

1 cup sugar
1 Tbsp. (1 envelope) unflavored gelatin
¼ tsp. salt
1 cup cold strong electric perk coffee
3 eggs, separated
½ pt. heavy cream, whipped

Prepare a 3 to 4 cup soufflé dish by forming a collar of wax paper around the top of the dish. Use paper clips to hold the ends of the overlapping paper above the dish top. The collar should extend about 3 to 4 inches above the top edge of the dish. In a small saucepan combine ½ cup sugar, gelatin, salt and coffee. Place over low heat and stir until gelatin dissolves. Remove from heat and add beaten egg yolks. Return to low heat and cook, stirring constantly about 1 minute. Cool and refrigerate until thickened slightly. Beat egg whites until frothy and gradually add remaining sugar, beating until mixture holds stiff peaks. Fold in the gelatin mixture and the whipped cream. Turn into the prepared dish. Refrigerate 4 hours or until set. Remove wax paper before serving. Serves 8.

ROOKIE'S CHOICE CAKES

1 cup all-purpose flour
1 cup sugar
1 tsp. baking powder
1 egg
¼ cup salad oil
1 tsp. vanilla
½ cup milk
½ cup Wheaties, crushed

Heat oven to 350°. Grease and flour square pan, 9 x 9 x 2 inches. Stir together flour, sugar and baking powder. Mix in egg, oil, vanilla and milk. Fold in cereal. Pour into pan. Bake 25 to 30 minutes or until top springs back when touched lightly with finger. Cool. Cut into squares or strips.

In our town a factory employs most of us. But we live under the pall of smoky chemical fumes.

Both labor and management attend our church—and they are concerned about pollution and our environment. They know it is a human dilemma. We must have jobs; we must have the products we make. And taxes from the factories support schools, clinics and public works. These are realities.

But we cannot continue destroying in the process of creating. It is God's world and we are the caretakers. That's also a reality.

As Christians we will seek the answer under God in His Church. We will work together and build a better world. Will you be in church next Sunday?

Six From Cameron At State Tech

Texas State Technical Institute in Waco, the state's first technical-vocational training center, has six students from Cameron enrolled in specialized programs for the fall trimester. Students and their training preferences are:

Mary Stecher, Advanced Technology Program;

Arthor Hanel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman J. Hanel or Rt. 2, Cameron, welding technology;

Randall McLerran, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. McLerran, civil engineering technology;

Wayne McLerran, Laser electro-optics technology;

Joetta Mikulec, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Mikulec, Jr., Rt. 2, Cameron, animal technology;

Norris White, auto body repair.

Right now, Mrs. Johnson is doing her housework.

Electricity is washing the dirty clothes and the breakfast dishes. Cleaning the oven. It's heating the baby's bath water, warming the house and simmering the soup for supper.

Mrs. Johnson uses 10 times more electric power around the house than her mother used 25 years ago. And each kilowatt-hour of that electric service costs her about one-half as much as it cost her mother. Electricity is one of the very few items that cost less today than they used to! Your electric bill is higher, because you use more electricity than ever before to help with the routine chores and keep your family comfortable. Electricity is still one of the biggest bargains in your budget.

While electric rates are low, TP&L's costs of producing and supplying electricity are high – and increasing rapidly. And, even though rates may have to be raised in the future, the Company is dedicated to keeping your electric rates as low as possible, consistent with good service.

IT'S A FACT: For the 20 years prior to 1966, interest rates on TP&L's debt issues ranged from 2¾% to 4⅜%. Since 1966, interest rates paid by the Company have averaged about 7¼% and 58% of the Company's total indebtedness was incurred during this period.

National Humanities Series Scheduled For Temple

The Temple Humanities Council has announced that the area's first National Humanities Series event has scheduled for Tuesday, December 5. A two-member team composed of Dr. William A. Owens of Columbia University and actress/folksinger Sandra Johnson of the LA MAMA Theatre in New York will give a variety of public presentations dealing with the history and character of the American frontier.

During their two-day visit, the team will present lectures, dramatic readings, workshops, discussions, and musical programs to several groups and audiences in the Central Texas area.

Included in their plans are appearances before church groups, students at Temple Junior College, Mary Hardin-Baylor College, Temple High School, Bell County Historical Society, Harvest House and Scott & White Hospital luncheon.

In addition, the team will offer an evening presentation for the general public entitled Frontiers: Settling A Nation on December 5, at 8 p.m. in Marshall Hall of the Cultural Activities Center, 318 W. Avenue G. All programs are free of charge.

Dr. Owens is the author of numerous books on American frontier life, including Tales From the Derrick Floor and This Stubborn Soil, and autobiographical novel about his childhood in Pin Hook, Texas. He is a professor in the Department of English at Columbia University.

Sandra Johnson will be performing primarily as a folksinger. She has sung professionally throughout the country, and this is her third year with the National Humanities Series. She is a pianist, and actress, and a dancer.

The Temple Humanities Council, an affiliate of the Cultural Activities Center, was formed this year and is headed by Mrs. Larry Hays. The program being brought to the Central Texas area is through the cooperation of the National Endowment for the Humanities and the Woodrow Wilson Foundation.

SOUTH OF THE BORDER residents, Oscar Martinez Diaz, Juan Pablo Aguire and Antonio Beltran are all Technical educators from the Instituto Tecnologico de Coahuila in Saltillo. They are living on the James Connally Campus of State Tech this fall, obtaining an insight into teaching methods in technical education in Texas.

Scouting Awards Listed

Base Toy Selection On Care And Common Sense

If St. Nicholas, or Kris Kringle, was as good as legend supposes, his success surely was based on care and common sense.

Today's shoppers could take a hint from him, one authority observed.

Jane Fleischer, specialist in family life education with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service of Texas A&M University, stressed the need for careful consideration in shopping for Christmas toys.

"Selecting play materials for children requires the same selectivity as any other Christmas item.

"Safety is of utmost importance. Toys should be built so that nothing can be pulled off and swallowed or be broken off, leaving sharp edges."

The specialist advised choosing well - constructed play materials.

"For example, toy hammers and mallets should have securely fastened handles, and the wheels on wooden toys should be fastened well, preferably with screws."

For cords and strings, non-conducting material such as cotton should be utilized; however, any string can carry electricity when wet.

Toys having keys should be made so the key won't revolve when the toys is working.

Another consideration is the child's use of the toy, Miss Fleischer continued. The child needs to be able to manage it by himself.

"A toy for any age should give the child a feeling of adequacy and set the appropriate standard for physical and mental development. Most mechanical toys are too intricate for children under four years of age."

Nor should toys be too restrictive. Instead, they should stimulate imagination and make-believe, encourage quiet play or vigorous body activity, and allow for playing alone and in group activity.

"Pets and toy gardening equipment fit this category," she added.

The toy also needs to fit the child's stage of development, the specialist continued. Although toys are usually marked with an age range, this can vary with the individual child's development.

"Pre-schoolers, for example, need activities to develop large muscles. Thus, their toys should stimulate imaginative play and require use of their hands.

"Young elementary children also need play materials which develop large muscles. In addition, they require activities and toys that help encourage social development--such as stories. Arts and crafts also can help the child coordinate fine muscles."

Team sports offer group development for older elementary children. Also, through hobbies, painting and musical toys, these youngsters may acquire other skills.

Toys are instrumental in role playing--an important part of the child's development which helps him identify with his parents. Because of this, puppets, dolls, dress-up clothes and housekeeping kits are popular.

"Role playing is especially important for boys--who need to identify with men and their occupations."

Often the son is unaware of just what his father's job is, Miss Fleischer pointed out. Therefore, it's sometimes difficult for him to identify with his father except through role-playing toys, such as fireman, policeman, engineer, pharmacist and doctor.

A reminder to shoppers--keep in mind where a particular toy gift will be used and stored. If the family lives in a small apartment, chances are there's not enough room to set up a big play house or store a hundred-piece farm set, she concluded.

Christmas Seals Now In Mail

Thousands of sheets of Christmas Seals are now being delivered to residents throughout the Central Texas area to accommodate early-bird shoppers, mailers and overseas receivers.

The action, culminating the "envelope stuffing" efforts of volunteers of the Central Texas Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association, marks the annual seal campaign kickoff.

According to Mrs. Mildred Wheeler of Cameron, the slogan "There's More To Do - Give More to Christmas Seals," is especially fitting.

Mrs. Wheeler said that donations from seals "give the gife of life and hope in their year - round fight against emphysema, tuberculosis and air pollution, and in addition spread health and good cheer in the holiday season through their uses on holiday cards and packages."

Mrs. Wheeler, who represents Milam County on the Central Texas TB-RD Association's Board of Directors and who is active in civic affairs, noted that monies received are spent generously in research.

"The ninth leading cause of death in the U.S. in 1969 has been attributed to the respiratory ailments of bronchitis, emphysema and asthma, with acute respiratory conditions spiraling throughout the nation," Mrs. Wheeler said.

Milam County is one of 25 counties comprising the Central Texas Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association.

EXPERIMENT STATION

The first forest experiment station in the U. S. was established in 1828 at Santa Rosa, Florida.

LEGAL NOTICE-

AN ORDINANCE FIXING AND DETERMINING THE GENERAL SERVICE RATE TO BE CHARGED FOR SALES OF NATURAL GAS TO RESIDENTIAL AND COMMERCIAL CONSUMERS WITHIN THE CITY LIMITS OF CAMERON, MILAM COUNTY, TEXAS, AND PROVIDING FOR THE MANNER IN WHICH SUCH RATE MAY BE CHANGED, ADJUSTED AND AMENDED.

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF CAMERON:

SECTION 1. Effective with the first gas bills rendered from and after thirty (30) days from the date of final passage of this ordinance, the maximum general service rate for sales of natural gas rendered to residential and commercial consumers within the city limits of Cameron by Lone Star as Company, a Texas corporation, its successors and assigns, is hereby fixed and determined as follows:

First 1,000 cu. ft. or fraction thereof $2.444 Gross; $2.20 Net

Next 3,000 cu. ft. @ $1.189 per Mcf Gross; $1.07 per Mcf Net

Next 6,000 cu. ft. @ 1.067 per Mcf Gross; .96 per Mcf Net

Next 15,000 cu. ft @ .989 per Mcf Gross; .89 per Mcf Net

Next 75,000 cu. ft @ .922 per Mcf Gross; .83 per Mcf Net

All Over 100,000 cu. ft. @ .889 per Mcf Gross; .80 Mcf Net

No gas bill will be rendered to any residential or commercial consumer served under the above rate not consuming any gas during any monthly billing period.

ADJUSTMENTS

The amount of each net monthly bill computed at the above-stated rates shall be subject to the following adjustments: plus an amount equivalent to the proportionate part of any new tax, or increased tax, or any other governmental imposition, rental, fee or charge (except state, county, city and special district ad valorem taxes and taxes on net income) levied, assessed or imposed subsequent to April 1, 1972, upon or allocable to the Company's distribution operations, by any new or amended law, ordinance or contract. Each gross monthly bill shall be adjusted proportionately. Company, at its option, may forego the application of any adjustment if such adjustment would result in an increase in the monthly bill; however, failure of Company to apply any adjustment shall not constitute a waiver of Company's right from time to time, or at any time, to make any adjustment, in whole or in part, in any subsequent current monthly bill that may be applicable to such bill.

Net rate shall apply to all bills paid within ten days from monthly billing date; gross rate shall be applicable thereafter.

The above rate is applicable to each residential and commercial consumer per meter per month or for any part of a month for which gas is used at the same location.

In addition to the aforesaid rates, Company shall have the right to collect such reasonable charges as are necessary to conduct its business and to carry out its reasonable rules and regulations in effect.

SECTION 2. The rate set forth in Section 1 may be changed and amended by either the City or Company furnishing gas in the manner provided by law. Service hereunder is subject to the orders of regulatory bodies having jurisdiction, and to the Company's Rules and Regulations currently on file in the Company's office.

SECTION 3. It is hereby found and determined that the meetings at which this ordinance was passed were open to the public, as required by Texas law, and that advance public notice of the time, place and purpose of said meetings was given, and that this rate ordinance is in compliance with the applicable general criteria issued by the Price Commission under the Economic Stabilization Act of 1970, as amended.

PASSED AND APPROVED on first reading on this the 7th day of November, A. D. 1972.

FINALLY PASSED AND APPROVED on second reading on this the 21st day of November A.D. 1972.

IN MEMORIUM

We are thankful to have had Uncle John in our lives -we hope that you knew him because we feel that to know him was to add something good to your life.

Uncle John Jinks was born near Cameron and lived most of his 77 years near his birthplace. He married his close neighbor, Tot Majors, a marriage of wonderful companionship, of love and understanding, which lasted to the minute Uncle John left us, and which produced a son, Horace.

Uncle John became a Christian when he was nineteen and joined the Walker's Creek Baptist Church. He was an ordained deacon and a faithful Christian. He was a Mason, a member of San Andres Lodge #170.

The memory of Uncle John is an inspiration because he was steadfast, even-tempered, never speaking ill of anyone.

Uncle John was a good Christian, a good husband and father, a kind and gentle person, and at this Thanksgiving season we are grateful for the example of his every day life.
